

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

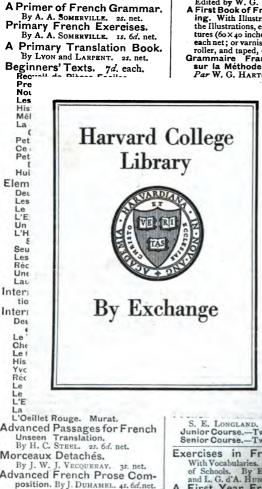

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. PREFACE

I HAVE had the opportunity of carefully looking through the proof sheets of this First Latin Translation book, and I consider it in every way suited to its object. The time has happily gone by when boys, on beginning the language, were at once plunged into a Latin author, or, worse still, forced to spend months over the scrappy fragments of knowledge contained in the dry sentences of a Delectus. It is now a mere truism that interest is the half-way house to Mr. Thomas has succeeded admirably knowledge. in the task of writing stories which are interesting, and yet at the same time as simple as is possible, without sacrificing all pretence to style. combination of these three qualities—simplicity, style, and interest—I think this book superior to any other of its kind that I have seen. Detached sentences are found on the first five pages: but those on pages 2 to 5 are arranged so as to form consecutive sense. The stories which follow are very carefully graduated in difficulty, the Active Verb only being used to number 60, and, to still further smooth the path for the beginner, Preparations (pages 61-70) have been written for the first few lessons, while afterwards notes are given (pages 71-77), wherever there appears to be any need for them. In accordance with the system pursued in other volumes of this series (Rivingtons' Junior Classics), Exercises for re-translation into Latin are given (pages 78-92), which have been made parallel with the text. The author has also added a few pieces of English for continuous Latin Prose (pages 93-103) of an easier kind than he has been able to find elsewhere.

THE PUMPKIN HOUSE.

11. Puer et puella cum părentibus in ōrā maris habitabant. Incolae locum Finem Terrarum vocant. Lībēri patrem et matrem valde ămābant et părentum iussă semper făciēbant.

Disobedience.

12. Die tamen něfasto ambo contra iussa matris ad lītus decurrērunt cymbamque intravērunt. Ibi diu ludēbant et per transtra transiliēbant, mănibusque ăquam verberābant. Perpetuo tandem motu funem 4 solvunt et aestüs cymbam in altum prověhit.

Adrift.

13. Nēmo eos videt; nemo eorum clamēres audit. Praeterea nulli rēmi sunt in cymbā. Nox tandem cum těnebris věnit, et ambo lacrimis defessi dormiunt. 4 Interea undae cymbam longè a patriā et părentibus ad sēlis occāsum amŏvent.

The Wonderful Island.

Primā luce mirificam insulam vident. Arböres enim caelum tangunt et omnia sunt maiora quam domi. Mox cymbae cărīna mollem arēnam leviter rādit.
 Laetā voce ambo novam terram sălūtant et cito e cymbā in lītus desiliunt.

They lose the boat.

15. Illi tămen incauti procul a lītŏre procēdunt, et interea reflui fluctūs, cymbam, sōlam spem rĕdĭtūs, in pontum resorbent. Diu ambo neglĕgentiam dŏlent, 4 sed splendĭdi flōrum cŏlōres et diversa animalium gĕnĕra animos delectant.

They explore the Island.

16. Prōtinus frāter cum söröre insŭlam explorat. Növae res eos maximā admiratione mövent. Rānae enim maiōres sunt quam cănes; cănes et căpellae vaccas amagnitūdine exsūperant, et vaccae nostrorum elephantorum magnitudinem adaequant.

More Wonders.

17. Muscae žvibus similes undīque volītant, žvesque permagnae ālis sēlem excludunt. Addē etiam mirabilem fructuum omnium abundantiam! His famem sitimque simul satiant. Terră omnia sine ullă cultură 4 ultro profundit.

-21

A Home.

18. Tum söror fratri, 'Ubi hac nocte,' inquit, 'dormiēmus?' Frāter respondet, 'En! hanc cucurbitam! Haec est sătis ampla nobis ambobus. Partem ex lătere excidamus! Tum fores egregias hăbebimus!' Hoc 4 stātim faciunt, et ante noctem domum omnibus ad vitam necessariis suppeditant.

Their mode of life.

19. Hic diu beatè vivunt. C'ibus constat ex fructibus, ovis, nucibus. Interdum ranarum crura coquunt; namque ignem siccis lignis incenderant. Nonnunquam aves pedicis, aut pisciculos hamis captant; magnam 4 partem temporis in venatione frater consumit, dum soror res domesticas curat.

Clothes.

20. Inter aliă puer sibi idoneum vestitum parabat ex pelle unius rănae, partim viridi partim aureo colore splendidum; praeterea sorori pallam ex papilionum alis pulcherrimam fingēbat. Haec palla mille coloribus 4 adverso sole lucebat.

The end of the Pumpkin.

21. Saepe illi in silvis animalia mirabilia spectabant, et ăliquando monstra inusitată magnitudine iuxta domum errabant. Tandem vacca ingens cucurbitam cornibus ferit et in aethera procul abicit. Puer forte 4 abest, sed puella ex cŭcurbĭtā excĭdit et cardui permagni in spicŭlis haeret. Inde mox illa fratris redŭcis auxilio incolumis descendit.

A new House.

22. Tunc ambo aliam et tutiorem dömum pětēbant. Nulla čnim adhuc höminum vestīgia vīdērant, sed hoc tempöre calceum immensum invēnērunt. Hic növam 4 domum instituunt; iānuam et fenestras e läteribus exsecant, tectumque palmarum frondibus contexunt.

The end of the Shoe.

23. In hoc tămen loco non diu habitabant. Nam paulo post immāni corpŏre canis dentibus calceum corrĭpit domumque fundĭtus perdit. Eo die frāter et 4 soror forte domo abĕrant et hoc dirum perīculum vitavērunt.

The Hollow Tree.

24. Posthac diu in trunco căvae arböris habitabant. Novam domum rebus necessariis, ut ante, instruebant. Huc sciūrus docilis nuces et glandes ferebat: radīces 4 etiam talpa iis dăbat eosque maximā curā fövebat. Hic tandem sēcuri ferarum impětūs non timuērunt.

Thoughts of Home.

25. Iam totum anni orbem in hac felīci insulā pueri complevērant, et iis iam patriae parentumque desīdērium incidit, et mentibus imāgo infelīcis matris saepe occur-4 rit. Vespere puella saepe lacrimabat et ambo reditūs consilia secum in animo agitabant. Tandem primo auctumno frater sororque prope lītus sĕdebant; măre placidum prospiciunt; subito aliquid in caelo vĭdent. En! lēnis aura Zephÿri ingentia cardui semĭna per 8 mare vĕhit! Illi velōcem horum seminum cursum per auras anxiis oculis observant.

The Plan.

26. Subito puer exclāmat: 'En! huc nos undae dīrīgebant, hinc nos aura domum reportabit.' Frater sorori consilium cito communicat. Continuo fūnes ex vītium clavīculis nectunt; e nūce magnā currum părant; 4 et his funibus currum maximo cardui sēmini allīgant; in currum imponunt cibi et ăquae copiam.

The Balloon-Voyage.

27. Proximo die ambo se ventis committunt; protinus secunda Zephyri aura eos rapide ad orientem portabat; totum diem super tumidos fluctus cursum tenuērunt, et sub vespērum ad oras suae patriae celeriter 4 adventabant.

Their Parents.

28. Eodem die forte pärentes maesti in horto ambulabant; lātum mare prospiciunt; de liberis heu! iam mortuis repütant, et immaturam eorum mortem multis verbis lamentisque inter se deplorant. Iamdudum 4 ěnim de liberorum sălūte despērant et sordidis vestīmentis dolorem ostendunt.

A Happy Ending.

29. Subito mater inquit, 'Aliquid in caelo mirum video. Ecce! Huc flectit cursum. Magnum orbem aspicio; ex eo dependet currus; puer et puella in curru 4 sedent; nostros liberos recognosco.'

Puer funem e curru statim demittit, et mox ex improviso parentes liberos caros in suos amplexus recipiunt.

8 Huius qu'idem aetātis pueris fortasse haec fabella incred'ibilis erit. Nos tamen pueri haec omnia pro verīs accipere sŏlēbamus.

[For Notes to Passages 30-173, see page 71.]

THE IDLER.

30. Carolus parvulus puer erat, et ludos plus quam litteras amabat. Hoc mater intellegit. Itaque cum eo in scholam sororem comitem misit.

His sister has no time to play.

31. Dies calidus erat, et puerulus sorori 'Tecum,' inquit, 'propter ripam fluminis ludëre melius erit quam magistri odiosam domum petëre.' 'Immo,' soror, 4 quae magis assidua fuit, respondet, 'mihi quidem non otium est; nam necesse est per totam urbem currère, lanamque et multa alia in usum matris emère. Ego enim et mater pro te ceterisque liberis victum et 8 pecuniam comparamus.'

The bee is too busy.

32. Inde puer apem huc illuc inter flores volitantem vīdit. 'Quanto felicior est apis quam ego,' inquit, 'illa enim nihil agit, nec pensa et ferulam magistri 4 timet.' 'Erras,' soror respondet, 'apis haud ignava est. Nunc mel in hiemem colligit, et mox cum magno mellis ŏnŏre ad favos redibit.'

The bird has its nest to build.

33. Paulo post idem puer avem dulcissime cănentem audivit; avi magnopere invidet. 'Illa avis,' inquit, 'profecto nullas curas habet. Quanto dulcius erit hic totum diem sub arboribus mănēre suavesque avis 4 cantūs audire quam severas magistri voces subire.' Illi tamen soror: 'En,' inquit, 'avis in humum devolavit; stramenta ore colligit; nidum enim suis pullis e stramento, plumis, musco aedificat. Avis certè tecum 8 tempus non těret.'

The reward of Idleness.

34. Postea ille canem, deinde equum nihil agentem vīdit. Uterque tamen sua negotia habuit. Sic puer tandem non invītus ad scholam pergebat, meritasque ob moram poenas persolvit.

THE CROCODILE AND THE TIGER.

35. Nuper miles in Gange flumine se lavabat. Cito eum crocodīlus videt. Miles summis viribus ad terram nătat, et vix ad ripam tutus pervenit. Ibi ingens tigris in insidiis cubat, et praedae ăvidus se in militem praecipitat. Miles repente corpus deflectit, et tigris in apertas crocodīli fauces insilit.

THE TOMTIT.

36. Parvus puer exiguam avem retë captavit. Laetus ille praedam comitibus demonstrabat. Primo avis maximè trepidat et rostro alisque se liberare tentat, sed frustra. Mox autem săgax avis mortem simulat. Tum 4 puer tristis cadaver humi deponit. Extemplo avis ad auras avolat!

THE WAX APPLES.

37. Carolus, mălus puer, fructuum omnia genera magnopere amabat. Olim sex māla singulari pulchritudine in mensā vidit. 'Unum ex his' ait 'capiam. Quis 4 enim sciet?' Îtaque pulcherrimum mālorum statim arripit, et avidis dentibus mordēre tentat. Quod dum facit, ille patris vocem subito audit. Heu! păter advenit; sed mālum cereum est, nec puer dentes ullo 8 modo divellere vălet. Dēnique furtum pătet, poenasque aviditatis păter extemplo exigit.

THE STRONG MAN.

38. Stultus quīdam delubrum intravit; calceos in vestibulo relīquit et in limine haec verba scripsit: 'Ego, cuius hi calcei sunt, admodum validus sum, et mox 4 redibo.' Fur calceos abripuit, et ita subscripsit: 'Ego sum cursor velocissimus, nec mihi in animo est redire.'

A LOYAL ROGUE.

39. Rusticus quidam fugientem regem inimicis tradëre noluit et maximum auri pondus recusavit; īdem paulo post vaccam furto surripuit, et poenas suspendio 4 solvit.

THE GNAT AND THE TRAVELLER.

40. Minimae res interdum nobis magno usui sunt. Viator ölim sub altā palmā propter ăquam consēderat. Itiněre fessus se somno dabat. Musca tamen eum 4 diu quiescere non sinebat; mödö cîrcum caput assiduo strepĭtu volitat, mödö in os lěvĭter resīdit; inde audacior fit, et stimulum ăcūtum in tenerrimam cervicis cutem infigit. Statim viator exsilit; iam vigil circumspicit; ingentem leonem instantem videt. Quam 8 celerrime summam palmam petit. Sic musca viatoris vitam servavit.

THE BEES AND THE SNAIL.

41. Cochlea forte in alvearium confertum reptavit. Apes attonitae inter se mussabant: 'Cur huc vēnit hoc monstrum tectum in dorso ferens? Scilicet haec moles angustas urbis vias omnīno obstruet. Agītē, nos 4 bestiam expellāmus.' Cunctae tamen cochleam ex urbe extrudere non poterant. Extremo apes aliud consilium excēgitant; cērā cochleae tectum solo undīque conglutinant. Nec iam cochlea se movēre poterat. Mox 8 pērit infelix nec amplius impedimento est apibus.

BEATEN WITH HIS OWN WEAPONS.

- 42. Vulpes olim gallum in arböre resīdentem vīdit, 'Descende et huc vēni,' inquit vulpes, 'tecum de multis rebus colloquium habēre volo; iamdiu in unum non convēnīmus.' 'Benigne,' respondet gallus, 'meā tamen 4 sententiā hic tutior sum.' 'Nonne tu novum edictum audivisti?' vulpes inquit. 'Omnia enim animalia inter se pācem decrevērunt, et nunc nos omnes in amicitiā et concordiā vivimus.'
- 43. Gallus nihil respondet at intente in silvam distantem oculos divertit. 'Quid tam intente prospicis?' vulpes rogat. 'Nisi fallor, video canes venāticos huc rapide currentes,' gallus respondet. 'Si hoc verum 4 est,' vulpes inquit, 'ego quam celerrime hinc me recipiam'. 'Nöli festinare', exclamat gallus, 'sed hic parumper mänē. Nonne omnia animalia pacem inter 8 se ägunt?' 'Id verum est,' vulpes inquit, 'at fortasse catuli edictum nondum accepērunt.'

THE BEAR AND THE CHILDREN.

- 44. Venātor olim celeberrimus cum uxōre iuxta vastam silvam in Monte Appennino habitabat. Iis gemini erant filii quatuor fĕrē annorum. Pueri 4 autem omnia animalium genera valdė amabant et cervos lūposque, quos in silvis nonnunquam observabant, propiūs vĭdēre studebant. Ergo merīdie, dum ānus, quae eos custodiebat, somno se dat, pueri sōli 8 silvam penetrant, et mox inter densas arbŏres aberrant.
- 45. Interea servi eos undïque exquirunt, cunctas silvarum vias explorant. Denïque parentes de liberorum sălūte desperant. Tertio tamen die pater cum 4 paucis aliis superiora löca montisque lătĕra accēdit. Illic liberos cum ingenti urso ludentes vīdērunt. Alter florum vinculis bestiam ducebat; alter in tergo equitabat, monstrique costas frondenti ramo verberabat; ambo 8 iucundi ac contenti rīdebant. Sed quam primum patris vōcem audiunt, illi comitem dŏcĭlem destituunt laetique amicos repĕtunt. Ursus se ad altissimas montium rupes incolumem recipit.

THE DOG CARLO AND THE DOCTOR.

46. Cănem olim parvulum rotă carpenti obtrivit. Animal miserrimum acri dölore ululabat. At medicus misericors canem lenissime sublevavit et secum domum portavit; tum saucium membrum lăvavit et maximă 4 cură vinculis colligavit! deinde patientem canem dimisit. Quotīdie autem Carlo redibat, et mědicus vulněri fomentă adhibebat, et mox illum omnino sanāvit. Paucis post mensibus īdem medicus latratum 8 in vestibulo audivit. Mox per apertam ianuam Carlo cum saucio amīco conclāve intravit, et, dum medicus sui comitis crus līgat, Carlo gratā linguā mănum benevoli hospītis lambebat.

THE CHILD AND THE EAGLE.

47. Messis erat in Helvēticis montibus. Omnes pagi incolae in agris segetes mětebant. Mater infantem in aggěre parumper deposuit. Aquila ingens in aethère appāret; subito in terram irruit et infantem 4 unguibus secum tollit. Mater 'filia' magnā voce exclamavit; sed frustra. Aquilae nīdus in summo iŭgo est. Huc volucris praedam portat. Rupes autem est praerupta. Nemo ascensum tentare audet. At mater 8 omnes difficultates supërat, arduae rupis frontem scandit et filiam incolumem recuperat.

A TALE.

48. Puerulus, qui nihil tale ante vīděrat, ingenti angui in viā occurrit. 'Ecce, mater,' inquit, 'caudam sine corpore currentem.'

THE TWO SISTERS.

49. Vidua olim, cui duae filiae, Lydia et Phyllis, erant, in casă parvă iuxta antiquam silvam habitabat. Mater autem alteram filiam, natu maiorem, quae natură

4 morosa et difficilis erat, magno amore diligebat, et assiduā laude nimiāque indulgentiā omnibus mŏlestam reddebat; alteram tamen naturā amabilem et benignam maximā crudelitate saepius castigabat.

At the Fountain.

50. Dum illa omni luxu et mollitiā recumbit, haec in culīnā vitam inter servilia opera agebat. Inter alia Phyllis bis die e mediā silvā aquam ferebat ex fonte, 4 qui a casā mille passūs aberat. Fervido aestatis die, dum puella apud hunc fontem amphoram implet, anus egēna, quae subito apparebat, tremulā voce aquam poscebat.

The Old Woman's Gift.

51. 'Da mihi,' inquit, 'carissima, aliquantulum aquae.' 'Immo, quantum vis, mater,' Phyllis respondet, 'tibi dăbo. Praetereā ipsă amphoram (gravissima enim 4 est) tuis labris apponam.' Anus aquam hausit; deinde 'Tibi,' inquit, 'gratias reddo, et te porro munere pretioso donabo. Ex hoc tempore, ubicunque vocem ēdes, margărītae rŏsaeque e tuis labris excident.' Cum his 8 dictis anus magicam virgam libravit et repente ex oculis evānuit.

Pearls and Roses.

52. Virgo domum rediit. Mater forte ad ianuam stabat, et illam ob moram violenter obiurgavit. 'Ignosce mihi, mater,' nata inquit; 'ocius redire non 4 potui.' Dum verba ēdit, margarītae et rosae e labris cădunt. 'Quid video?' mater exclamat; 'Phyllis ex ore emittit rosas et margarītas! Quomodo hoc tibi accidit, mea nata?' Tum puella matri suae narrat omnia, quae sibi ad fontem acciderant, et plures marga-8 ritas inter verba ēdebat. 'Fortuna tibi favet,' mater exclamat, 'extemplo Lydiam, meas delicias, ad fontem mittam. Illi profecto meliora dona anus dăbit.'

-55

Lydia goes to the Fountain.

53. His verbis mater Lydiam e lecto, ubi deses totum diem consumebat, evocat et eam ad fontem ire iubet. 'Aspice,' inquit, 'margaritas, quas soror tuă ex ore diffundit: ad fontem silvestrem contende, et si 4 anus pauperrimo aspectu aquam te rogaverit, eam quantum libet exhaurire benigne iube.' 'Equidem nemini servire volo,' nata ingrate respondet; ad fontem tamen festinat, sed pro viliore amphora poculum argenteum 8 fastidiosa manu gerebat.

The old woman in a new guise.

54. Postquam illa ad fontem pervēnit, mulier splendido habitu děcōră, in albo equo cum ephippiis aureis equitans, e silvā improvisă vēnit, et aquam dulci voce oravit. Haec autem mulier reverā eădem fuit, 4 quae Phyllidi longe diversā figurā māně appāruerat; veram enim puellarum indŏlem probare voluit et munera pretiosa noluit dare puellae, quae beneficentiam mŏdŏ simulabat.

Vipers and Toads.

55. Tum mulieri Lydia superbā voce respondet: 'Non tibi videlicet, etsi magnificè te geris, argenteum hoc poculum huc ferebam. Nihilominus, tibi licet bibere, si vis.' Cui mulier 'Certè parum comis es,' 4 inquit, 'et tua maligna natura manifeste pătet. Te igitur mălo munere puniam. Posthac ubicunque ōs aperies, e labris tuis viperae et bufones exsilient.' 8 Cum dictis mulier mirabili modo se ex visu recepit, et puella irată domum revertit.

Phyllis runs away.

56. Cui mater redeunti procul exclamat: 'Quid tibi, Lydia, anus dixit?' 'Nihil boni,' filia respondet, et cum verbis vipera et bufo in humum decidunt. 4 Quae res matris et omnium, qui aderant, animos terrore et odio implet. 'Quid hoc est?' mater inquit. 'Haud dubium est! Sŏror tuă imprŏbă hoc fecit. Confestim ego illam multis ictibus verberabo.' Phyllis autem, 8 simul ac matris minas audivit, e casā in densas silvas profūgit, ubi tandem multo fletu defessa hūmi sub arbŏre consēdit.

The Prince finds Phyllis.

57. Eodem die forte sub vesperum Princeps, qui a venatione domum revertebat, per silvam equitabat. Qui simul ac virginem lacrimis maestam aspexit, 4 causam doloris exquirebat, (nam valdè benignus et misericors ille fuit). Huic Phyllis inter lacrimas 'mater meë,' inquit, 'mălā linguā et verberibus me domo expulit.' Princeps attonitus videt margaritas, quae ex ore 8 veniunt, virginemque in suum equum imponit, domumque ad reginam redücit.

The Marriage.

58. Phyllidis innocentia et benignitas omnibus et praesertim rēgis filio, qui eam servaverat, plăcebant.

Itaque haud multo post Phyllis Principi non sine regis reginaeque consensu et omnium acclamatione nupsit et 4 brevi tempore coniugem amicosque omnes et mitibus verbis et margaritis pretiosissimis ditavit.

Death of Lydia.

59. Lydia interea peior et mägis mörösa indies fiebat, et mox ipsam matrem taedebat viperarum et bufonum, quos filia semper ex ōre emittebat; quare mater illam föras extrusit, et in silvam dimisit, ubi aut fämes aut 4 fërae eius miseriae finem posuerunt.

Ex hac fabulā hoc pro certo habete: mītia verba pretio margaritas, dulcedine rosas exsuperant; verbera mălae linguae sunt peiora viperarum dentibus.

THE FORTY THIEVES.

60. Rusticus ad theatrum ibat 'Quadrāgintā Fures' visum. Custos iānuae nimium pecuniae exigebat. 'Nummos depone,' ianitor inquit; 'cur dubitas ?' 'Non iam eādem sum mente,' rusticus respondet, 'unum čnim 4 fūrem vīdi nec reliquos novem et trigintā spectare cupio.'

[THE PASSIVE VERB.]

THE GEESE AND THE CHERRY-BRANDY.

61. Anus olim, quae nuper rus ex urbe venerat, cërăsorum modium in vino coxit. Quod autem hunc cibum famuli ĕdere noluerunt, anus omnia anseribus comĕdenda fŏras abiecit. Mox ancilla accurrit ex-clamans: 'Huc cito, domina mea, festīna. Anseres ad unum mortui sunt. Ecce: hūmi exanimes sternuntur.' 'Me miseram!' anus inquit. 'Quid faciam? Quomodo hoc damnum repărabo? Plumas saltem ex avibus vellĭte; 8 ne eas quoque perdamus.' Itaque plumae sine morā avelluntur. Cadavera quasi ad nullam rem utilia in cohortem proiciuntur.

62. Postrīdie tamen primā luce ancilla dominam e lecto excitavit. Horribile dictu: Anseres in vitam restituti huc illuc sine plumis palabantur. Nam ebrii 4 tantum vino facti erant, non mortui. 'Heu! quid miserrimae aves facient?' anus exclamat. 'Nonne plumis nudatae frigore necabuntur?' Ergo benevola anus tunicas avibus e rubro pallio fecit, et mox anseres 8 rubris tunicis induti ruricolarum cachinnos commoverunt.

THE DEAF AND DUMB BEGGAR.

63. Mendīco cuidam et muto et surdo eques aureum nummum forte dedit. Tanto munere attonitus, 'Di te beatum faciant!' mendīcus exclamat. 'Quomodo tu 4 mutus loqui potes?' eques interrogat. 'Mehercle' respondet ille impūdens, 'liberalitas tua mihi loquendi et audiendi facultatem simul restituit.'

SCOTLAND AND THE THISTLE.

64. Cum Dani contra Scotos bellum gererent, regiam arcem nocturnă incursione occupare conati sunt. Milites ad hanc rem electi nudato pede ad moenia 4 appropinquabant. Subito unus ex illis, pedem carduo imposuit, et dolore victus magnă voce exclamavit. Quo clamore Scoti excitati hostes ingenti caede reppülerunt. Ex hoc tempore carduus magno in honore apud Scotos 8 habetur et in regio insigni ponitur his verbis circumdătus:

'Nemo me impune lacessit.'

MATERNAL LOVE.

65. Quatuor sciuri, mater et tres nati, iuxta silvam hümi inter se ludebant. Subito canis, praedae avidus, eos petit. Matercula pro suis magis quam pro se ipsā sollicita ad arborem proximam cucurrit et argutos 4 sonos ore ēdebat. Parvuli matrem secuti truncum incolumes ascendērunt. Mater tamen serius heu! morāta saevis catuli morsibus dilaniata est.

THE BOY AND THE HONEY.

66. Puer pravus nescio cuius rei emendae causā in tabernam iniit, et, dum nemo adest, aliquantum mellis audaci digito ad os afferebat. Quod per rimam mercator vīdit, et subito ingressus exclamavit: 'Quis hoc mel 4 vēnēnatum in mensā tēmērē relīquit? Id de medio tolle! quod si quis forte gustaverit, mehercule, peribit.' Quibus dictis puer sceleris conscius obstupescit. Multis lacrimis furtum confĭtētur. 'Me, prēcor,' inquit, 'a 8 crudeli morte ērīpe; quodvis remedium potabo.' Homo cum teterrimam potionem ex variis medicamentis composuisset, austērā voce dixit: 'Hoc ad faeces quam celerrimè exhauri.' Puer acerbo vultu potionem 12 rapuit, exhausit, excessit. Totum vicum ululatibus complevit. Quā re doctus postea mănūs ab alienis abstinuit.

TWO ROGUES.

67. Duo veteratores gladios in urbe venditabant. Alter eos tantūli vendīdit ut alter exclamaret: 'Miror quomodo hoc facere possis. Nam, fateor, ego capulos furatus sum.' 'Ego vero,' inquit alter, 'non modo 4 capulos, verum etiam lāminas ipsas surripui.'

THE KING AND THE SPONGE.

68. Philippus, Rex Macedonum, vino liberius indulgebat. Ob hanc rem ille a quibusdam laudabatur. Demosthenes dixit 'Bŏnae spongiae, non boni regis est 4 multum potare.'

THE SACK OF FLOUR.

69. Cölönus quidam parcus, qui ex horreo plus frumenti indies amittebat, furti auctorem comprehendere statuit. Ipse igitur nocte se in vacuo sacco abdidit 4 suis mănibus furem rapturus. Multa de nocte sonus auditur. Subito saccus, in quo colonus lătet, corripitur. Ex insidiis ille exclamat: 'Iam aliquando te, sceleste, teneo.' Sed priusquam colonus caput extrudere potuit, 8 fur os sacci fune astrinxit, et secum quicquid frumenti in horreo erat avexit, dum colonus infelix in sacco temeritatem luget.

THE CRIPPLE AND THE TIGER.

70. Mendīcus Neapoli nōtus, utroque pede claudus, qui per multos annos e suis calamitatibus quaestum fecerat, in trivio, ut mos erat, populum praetereuntem 4 nummos flagitabat. Subito tumultus oritur. Cives pavore perculsi praeter mendīci sellam in praeceps ruunt clamantes: 'Effugite omnes; tigris clathros perfregit; huc vĕnit!' Claudus extemplo debilitātis 8 oblītus sine mŏrā se fugae dat, et summis vīribus usus omnes currendo superat. Tigris paulo post capta est, sed mendīcus in iis regionibus nunquam iterum conspectus est.

THE BLIND MAN AND THE CRIPPLE.

71. Homines auxilium inter se debent. Duo miserrimi, alter caecus, claudus alter et inops, vitae mălis defessi mortem exoptabant. Caecus autem forte claudo occurrit. Södāles fiunt, et mutuam inter se opem praestant. 4 Crura caecus, claudus oculos suppeditat. Caecus claudum humeris portat; claudus caeci pedes dirigit. Itaque alter alterius măla allevat, vitamque feliciorem facit.

DOING NOTHING.

72. Magister olim duos fratres inter studia pueriliter se gerentes aspexit. Ille maiorem subito interrogavit: 'Quid agis ?' 'Nihil,' respondit puer. Deinde ex altero quaesivit: 'Quid ergo tu?' Ille vero ingenue, 4 'Fratrem adiuvo.'

THE CANDID BOY.

73. Idem magister alio die iracundus pigrum puerum culpabat. 'Cur,' inquit, 'propositum, quod te ediscere iussi, dedidicisti? Poenā te grāvi puniam.' 'Iniustè,' puer respondit, 'id enim omnino nunquam didici.'

THE JUDGE AND THE THIEF.

74. Iudex illustrissimus cum amīco admodum oblīvioso per urbem ambulabat. In deserto vico furcam viderunt. 'Hanc experiar,' iudex inquit, 'furcam meo collo affige, et paulisper abi.' Hoc amīcus fecit abiitque, iudicis omnino oblītus. Ille autem, quem mox furcae taedebat, frustra se liberare conatus est. Paulo post advēnit fur notissimus, quem 8 iudex saepe furti condemnaverat, furcaque ipse puniverat. 'Hanc furcam, mi amice,' iudex submisse precatur, 'de collo meo tolle.' 'Minime,' fur respondet, 'ipse experire cruciatum, quo me saepe torsisti.' Multi praeter locum ibant, sed nemo iudici credere volebat, donec tandem amicus eadem via rediens eum iam despērantem liberavit.

THE CONIES.

75. Imbēcillus quīdam unā cum magnā iuvenum catervā cunīculos persēquebatur. Huic comites dictitabant: 'Ubi cunīculos videbis, tācē; ne verbum quidem 4 dixēris.' Ille tamen progressus, ut primum praedam procul vidit, 'Ecce! multi cunīculi,' magnā voce exclamavit. Confestim parva animalia ad caveas se recēperunt. Tum ille attonitus,' Num cunīculi,' inquit, 8 'Latinam linguam intellegunt?'

THE ELEPHANT AND THE ROTTEN BRIDGE.

76. Elephantus pontem quotīdie transire solitus est. Tandem vero accīdit ut in pontem incedere elephantus nollet; ligna transversa iam trunco, iam 4 pede excussit, sed prodire noluit. Nihilominus custos acuto iaculo animal sub aurem percussit. Ita incitatus elephantus tandem cauto pede transitum tentavit. At simul ac ille ad medium pontem advēnit, 8 magni fragores auditi sunt; pons in ruinas corruit. Denique custos atque elephantus in aquam praecipitati sunt. Hic non sine iniuria ad ripam natat; ille perito ob crudēlitatem interfectus est.

CATO AND HIS SON.

77. Cato maior, iam aetate provectus, paulo postquam prima uxor mortua est, alteram admodum iuvenem domum duxit. Redeunti patri filius, id aegrè passus, 'Quomodo tibi, pater,' inquit: 'displicui, quod 4 novercam mihi dedisti?' 'Minime, mi fili,' pater respondit, 'e contrario mihi adeo placuisti, ut mihi spem aliorum natorum adimere non possim.'

TALKING AND DOING.

78. Architectum Athenienses petebant, qui publicam quandam aedem strueret. Duo viri opus suscipere cupiebant. Alter longam orationem fecit; alter sic breviter: 'Cives Athenienses, omnia, quae dixit ille, 4 en! ego faciam.'

THE BRAVE LITTLE TAILOR.

Milo's shop !

79. Homunculus, nōmine Milo, qui tegumenta corporum suebat, assiduā ăcu paternam artem in parvā tabernā exercebat. Huic quidem corpus tenuissimum erat, sed animus in pectore gloriae cupiditate flagrans. 4 Muscae autem molestissimae eum vexabant, animumque a negotiis distrahebant. Itaque tandem iracundus ille vestitu, quem faciebat, magnam hostium multitudinem percussit. Cadāvera ad numerum septem enumerabat. 8

Seven at a blow!

80. Tum suā fortitudīne animisque attonitus exclamabat: 'En! ego magnas res gessi; non modo tota urbs, verum etiam totus terrarum orbis hoc factum 4 cognoscet.' Statim ipse sibi balteum lātum facit et rubris litteris haec verba acu intexit: 'Septem uno ictu occīdi.' Tum balteo se accingit, et domo statim procedit magnam sibi gloriam virtute adepturus. Taberna 8 enim viro tam forti nimis angusta erat. Nihil tamen aliud nisi casei fragmentum avemque exiguam, quam rete ceperat, secum in sacco portabat.

Meets a Giant.

81. Merīdie ad summum collem pervēnit, ubi gigantem ingentem vīdit, qui sub arbore sĕdens terras sub pedibus latè patentes prospiciebat. Homunculus 4 ad gigantem accessit et hilari voce, 'Quid agis, mi amice?' inquit: 'Tu otiosus latum orbem spectas. Egomet illuc iter facturus sum. Visne me comitari?' Gigas advēnam audacem irridebat. 'Quid mihi tecum 8 commune est?' quaesivit. 'Quas tu res gessisti?' Homunculus balteum ostendit responditque: 'En ego septem uno ictu occidi!'

Feats of Strength.

82. Inde gigas Milonem pluris aestimavit, sed vires eius experiri constituit. Itaque saxum digitis compressit, donec aqua e saxo mānaret. 'Id nihili facio' homun-4 culus inquit, et statim e caseo, quem in sacco ferebat, lac manu extraxit. Deinde nondum certus gigas lapidem ingentem summis viribus in aethera proiecit, quem illi oculis vix prosequi poterant. 'Non male 8 lapides iactas,' clamat Milo; 'lapis tamen, quem proiecisti, ad terram suo pondere ruit. Quod tamen ego proieiam, profecto nunquam redibit.'

-85

They carry a Tree.

83. Milo igitur extemplo avem e sacco ad auras immisit, quae caelum non reditura petiit. 'Haud dubium est,' gigas confitetur, 'iactando perītior es; sed quantum onus sustentare vales? Hanc quercum mihi 4 tolle.' 'Libentissime id faciam,' inquit homunculus. 'Siquidem tu humeris truncum feres, ego ramos, gravissimam arboris partem, portabo.' Continuo gigas, qui homunculum a tergo latentem videre non poterat, 8 truncum suis humeris imposuit, et solus sub onere gravi luctabatur.

The Giant gives in first.

84. Interea particeps laboris inter ramos sedens laeta voce cantabat. Tandem gigas fătīgatus exclamabat: 'Longiùs ire non possum; arborem nunc deponam, nam pondus gravius est.' Quare homunculus e sede 4 alacriter desilit, dumque ramos utraque mănu arripit his verbis gigantem increpat: 'Parvi tuas vires aestimo; ad nullam rem utilis es. Tanta corporis magnitudine tantulum lignum portare non vales.'

The Giant's Cave.

85. Postea gigas comitem magis admirari coepit, et mox, ubi iam vesper appetebat, 'lıcet tibi,' inquit, 'ad nostrum antrum venire, et nobiscum hac nocte deversari; hospitio haud parco te excipiemus.' Sic Milo 4 cum gigante ingens antrum e montis lătere exesum intravit. Illic quinque alii gigantes circa ignem considebant; taedae e tecto crebrae dependebant; et flammae deformes gigantum vultūs immensosque artūs 8 lūrīdā luce illuminabant. Quot monstra erant illic, tot ovium cadavera flammis torrebantur. Nam quisque totam ovem devorabat.

They sleep.

86. Cuncti homunculum oblīquis oculis intuebantur. Ille tamen interritus cenā perfruebatur. Deinde post cenam gigas amicus Milonem ad magnum lectum 4 adduxit, eumque usque ad solis ortum illic recumbĕre iussit. Ille tamen nescio quid măli suspĭcātus lectum, ut sibi nĭmis amplum, vitavit, seque in angŭlo antri obscuriore furtim composuit. Deinde cuncti gigantes 8 vino grāvāti se somno dabant.

The Treacherous Giant.

87. At mediā nocte gigas, amicus perfidus, dum homunculus sēcurè dormit, e toro exsurrexit et ferreā clavā lectum hospitis percussit, quem in mille frag-4 menta perfregit exclamans: 'His ictibus te, miserrimum animal, perdidi.' Tum primā luce gigantes se ad silvas, ut mos erat, receperunt, ubi innocentis hospitis omnino immemores praedam caedesque novas exquire-8 bant; sed priusquam longè processerunt, homunculum adversus se lēvi pede festinantem viderunt, et mortem imminentem veriti statim terga vertērunt seque in densissimas silvas abdiderunt.

The King's Palace.

88. Postea ille hac victoria laetus via recta procedit et tandem ad aulam magnae domus pervenit. Hic itinere fessus se somno dat, et dum dormit, rex eum 4 videt, et verba in balteo 'Septem uno ictu occidi,' perlegit. 'Hic vir est,' rex inquit, 'multis proeliis probatus et singulari robore praeditus; hunc videlicet ad nos di boni miserunt, qui nobis saluti sit, et hanc civitatem 8 contra omnes adversarios defendat.' Inde rex ho-munculum excitatum arcessit, et illi: 'Si vis,' inquit, 'nobiscum stipendia facere, ego tibi magnas aedes et multum pecuniae dabo.' Milo igitur se iureiurando adēgit et inter equites conscriptus multis honoribus a 12 rege cumulatus est, qui mox eum exercitui praefecit.

Milo is made General.

89. Invidiae quidem apud exercitum haec res fuit, et civibus materiam Milonem ob tenuitatem corporis elevandi praebuit, sed omnes homunculum veriti sunt, ne septem uno ictu occideret. Sic per tres annos 4 novus imperator in otio ac pace florebat, nec quisquam eum nisi absentem increpuit. Interea autem duo terribiles gigantes longinquam regis provinciam incendiis ac caedibus infestabant, et omnibus incolis 8 ingentem păvorem incutiebant, qui tandem legatos ad regem opem suppliciter precantes miserunt.

The First Labour.

90. Confestim rex Milonem arcessivit et eum cum centum electis equitibus expeditionem contra latrones facere iussit. 'Si hos homicīdas sceleratos delēvēris, ego tibi,' rex inquit, 'dimidium regni dabo, et filiam 4 meam in matrimonium ducere tibi licebit.' 'Non mihi opus est centum equitibus', respondit Milo; 'cito hos duos gigantes ipse interficiam, namque ego, qui septem uno ictu occīdi, duos certe non pertimescam.'

Milo finds the Giants asleep.

91. Itaque Milo cum centum equitibus profectus tandem ad regiones a gigantibus vastatas pervēnit; milites extra silvam reliquit et solus adversus hostes

4 progressus est. Mox homunculus geminos gigantes sub arbore dormientes invēnit; illi horrendis nāribus stertentes ramos arborum spīritu, sīcut vento, agitabant. Extemplo Milo galeam lapidibus implevit et in 8 arborem iis impendentem ascendit. Tunc ex altā sede lapides deiecit et alterum gigantem mox magno lapide in pectus fĕrit, qui e somno excitatus fratrem in os pugno percellit.

The Giants quarrel.

92. Inde rixa fit, et tandem inter se evulsis pinorum truncis furiosè confligunt; diu et acriter pugnatum est; multos ictūs uterque dat recipitque, donec vulneribus 4 confecti ambo mutuae morti occumbunt. Inde homunculus ex arbore celeriter desilit, et utriusque cadaver ter gladio confödit. Tum milites, ubi arbores radīcītus evulsas et omņia proelii vestīgia, gigantesque ipsos 8 gladio confossos aspiciunt, de singulari imperatoris virtute non ampliùs dubitant, et rēgi rem gestam renuntiant.

The Second Labour.

93. Rex tamen perfidus fidem violat, nec regnum adhuc tradere vult, sed ex hoc die Milonis exitium expetit, eumque discrimini periculosissimo obicere 4 constituit. Cervus autem id temporis in silvis erat cum ob feritatem tum pedum celeritate insignis, qui multum incolis detrimenti et terroris afferebat. Rex proinde homunculo, 'Si hunc cervum,' inquit: 'vivum 8 ad me huc reduxeris, tum filiam tibi dabo.' Milo salvamenti et securim; mox cui unum in fronte cornu erat, invenit. Quod animal simul atque homunculum videt, in eum impetum 12 cornu facit, celeri tamen corporis motu homo ictum evītat et cervi cornu firmiter arboris trunco infigitur. Protinus ille cornu securi excīdit, et fune cervum ad regem adduxit.

The Third Labour.

94. Rex tamen ne tum quidem homunculo filiam dăre voluit, et eum tertium laborem conficere iubet. 'Da mihi,' inquit, 'caput apri qui saevissimus in paludibus silvae proximis habitat, vicinosque agros infestus 4 populatur.' Impavidus ille hoc quoque perīculum ădit. Milites rursus extra silvam mănēre iubet, et solus, ut anteā, monstrum petit. Aper hominem primus aspexit, et in eum fulmineis dentibus irruit. Milo in 8 delubrum, quod opportune adest, refügit, quem aper fugientem proximus insequitur. Homo tamen mirabili cum celeritate per fenestras evadit, et ianuā clausā aprum exeuntem intercipit. Itaque Milo domum ad 12 regem apri caput reportavit, et tandem rex factus filiam regis in matrimonium duxit.

THE SCOTCHMAN AND THE ROBBERS.

95. Scotus quidam nundinis domum serus redibat. In deserto viae loco tres latrones subito in eum irruerunt. Viator tamen tergo arbori apposito se tam fortiter defendit ut vix post longam dimicationem 4 opprimeretur. Tandem humi stratus crumenam Scotus latronibus tradidit. Tantum unus as inerat. Latrones attoniti inter se exclamabant: 'Si tres asses in crumena habuisset nos scilicet omnes avarus interfecisset.' 8

Extemplo Milo galeam lapidibus implevit et in 8 arborem iis impendentem ascendit. medio excessit. Omnes autem, qui aderant, mirabantur. Sed haud multo post īdem ad iudicem retractus capitis 12 condemnatus est. Iudex enim: 'Ille,' inquit, 'qui saccum auri gravissimum sine ullo nisu efferre potest, profecto mensae lěviōris onus sustinēre valet.'

STABLE LOVE.

103. Equus et cănis olim socii erant in stabulis et ămīcitiam inter se stabilem contraxerant. Equus igitur cănem, cănis equum contra cēteros fideliter 4 defendebat. Aliquando alius canis, ferox, ingenti corporis magnitudine, equum latratu lacessivit. Amicus canis equo statim subvenit et se in ingentem hostem, sui immemor, fortiter praecipitavit. At 8 monstrum immane eum ore corripuit. Tum equus invicem sălūti socio suo est, et dentibus ungulisque hostem fugat, suumque amīcum e perīculo līberat.

THE BIRD-FANCIER AND THE OWL.

104. Vir loquax, qui se maximè ob sagacitatem iactavit, tonstrīnam, ut tondēretur, intravit. Is omnia animalium, imprīmis avium, genera, et quod cuique 4 proprium erat, accuratè nōvisse dicebatur. Qui, dum tonsor cultros exercet, multis de rebus disertè loquitur. Mox cum avem uno pede stantem haud procul vidisset, 'Num illam avem,' inquit, 'strǐgem vŏcas?' 8 Tonsor subridet, nihil tamen respondet. 'Mehercule' exclamat, 'illa strigi non similior est quam tu. Num is, qui cutem illius avis curavit, unquam vivam strigem suis oculis vidit? Equidem nunquam strigem tam 12 ridiculo modo sĕdentem aspexi!' Dum loquitur, strix—nam viva erat—ālas expandit seque in locum obscuriorem recēpit. Ii, qui aderant, risum continēre vix potuerunt.

THE THREE BRAHMINS.

105. Dum tres homines apud Indos doctissimi in silvis forte ambulant, accidit ut tigris ossa huc illuc dissipata invenirent. Tum unus ex iis, ut vim doctrinae sociis ostentaret 'En ego,' inquit, 'arte meā 4 potentissimā haec ossa in unum corpus restituere possum.' Alii quidem dubitabant, sed cum doctus ille arcana quaedam verba edidisset, extemplo ossa in pristinam figuram ultro redierunt. Secundus vero, qui 8 vult sapientior videri, 'Ego carnem et pellem redintegrare queo,' affirmavit. Qui quum voces quasdam clam cantavisset, tigris inănimus quidem sed cum carne et pelle, sīcut in vitā fuerat, exstitit. Inde tertius, ne 12 a sociis sapientiā superari videretur, 'En ego maiora faciam,' clamavit, et statim ut tigris revivisceret, effecit. Quid multa? Tigris eos omnes dilaniavit.

SILENCE.

106. Homo in convivio ab ovis usque ad poma tacens ne unum quidem verbum dixit. Unus e convivis hospitem de eo interrogat. 'Ille est amicus meus, nomine Tacitus,' hospes inquit. 'Quid de eo putas ?' 4 'Si sapit,' respondet conviva, 'eum stultum puto, sin autem stultus est, sapientem.'

THE BICYCLE.

107. Haec machina constat ex duabus rotis, non curriculi modo coniunctis, sed altera alteri praeposita. Viator in eam veluti in equum ascendit et cruribus utrinque dispositis rotas pedibus propellit. In plano 4 longa itinera facile conficiuntur et in declivi loco nullo nisu celerrime decurritur.

The Beginner must not mind Bruises.

108. Non cuivis dătur in hac machinā impune equitare; nec quisquam sine pulvere děcōro multoque perīculo membrorum capitisque hac arte peritus fit.

A first Ride.

109. Duo adulescentuli amico cuidam iam graviori annis et huius machinae imperito suaserunt ut in summo colle in altam machinam insiliret, polliciti se manibus 4 eum retenturos esse. Parumper ille leni motu delabitur. Mox tamen rotae aut gravitate incumbentis corporis aut amicorum manibus impulsae iam incitatiore cursu feruntur.

The Catastrophe.

110. Perfidi amici cum risu manūs detrahunt. Nec morš; credulus ille incredibili cum velocitate, sinuoso primum, deinde directiore cursu, in praeceps fertur, et 4 citiùs dicto ad imum collem provectus in amicam sepem immittitur. Unde a ridentibus amicis vix extractus domum sapientior rediit.

THESEUS.

The Stone under the Plane-tree. ...

111. Theseus filius erat Aethrae, sed patris nomen ignorabat. Is and Pittheum, Troezēnis regem, educatus est. Quem iam quindecim annos nātum 4 Aethra secum ad Neptuni templum duxit. Iuxta templum lūcus erat, quem mater Theseo demonstrabat. 'In medio luco,' inquit, 'mi fīli, alta platānus crescit, cuius sub rāmis saxum ingens lătet. Si vis patris tui nomen discère, hoc saxum (fac tollas, et ea, quae subter 8 abdita invēneris, huc mihi affer.'

Failure.

112. Continuo Theseus per virgultă vepresque perrupit, et mox platanum et ad imam platanum saxum hedera muscoque obsitum invenit. Quod ut moveret, summis viribus diu connixus nihil profecit, maestusque 4 matri se saxum movere non posse) renuntiavit. Postea quotannis eodem die Aethra cum Theseo lucum frustra petierunt. Saxum tam grave erat, ut moveri non posset.

Success.

113. Interea Theseus multum temporis inter palaestrae exercitationes et in venando agit; equos domat; apros taurosque superat; capros damasque currendo fatigat. Insuper ine inermis Phaeam, ferocem Crommyonis suem, quae agros passim vastaverat, occidit. Nihil den'que non fecit, ut vires augeret, seque ad omnia pericula subeunda pararet. Cui tandem vicensimo aetatis anno mater ita dixit. 'Nisi hodie saxum 8 sustuleris, patris tui nomen tibi nunquam cognoscendum est.' Quibus dictis incitatus Theseus re infecta se non rediturum esse iuravit. Lucum igitur ingressus saxum magno conatu sublatum evertit, gladiumque et talaria, 12 (quae subter latebant,) patefecit; quo facto laetus ad matrem recurrit.

The Mission.

114. Mater ubi) aureum glădii căpulum et aurea talăria vidit, diu flevit; tum filium sub chlămyde ea cēlare oculosque ad măre vertěre iussit. Sub pedibus 4 Troezēne, regio angusta ac sterilis, iacēbat; ultra măre procul Atticam terram latè patentem tuēri licebat. 'Illic,' Aethra ait 'Athenienses, Cecropidae, qui aureas cicādas in crīnibus gĕrunt, fertiles agros incolunt. 8 Nam cicādarum modo terrigenae sunt, diemque diuturno cantu laetam faciunt. Quorum rex Aegeus, mihi crēde, te genuit. Hunc igitur expete, gladioque et talaribus exhibitis haec verba refer. "En: saxum 12 Troezenense sublatum est.) Cuiusnam pignora haec sunt?"' Tum mater filium multis cum lacrimis amplexa in templum subito se recēpit. Inde Theseus iam solus multas res in animo agitabat et tandem gladio accinctus 16 iter trans Isthmum ad Atticam facere patremque exquirère constituit.

The Spider-Mountains.

115. L'Herculis mŏdō,' inquit, 'magnos lăbōres suscipiam, tantas denique res geram, ut păter Aegeus me libenter excipiat.' Sic solus, ad omnia perīcula subeunda păratus 'proficiscitur, et tandem ad montem Arachnaeum pervenit. Ibi omnia itinera eōdem tendunt, ubi in mĕdiā viā Periphētēs sĕdet, qui, sīcut ărānea, viatoribus improvidis insidiatur; pro tegmine sursi extivias gerit; dextrā těnet clavam aeream, quam pater Volcanus sub īmis montibus incūdit.

The fight with Periphetes.

116. Simul ac Periphetes Theseum vīdit, clavā correptā se in advēnam immisit. Nec Theseus pugnam recūsat, sed gladio destricto clavīgērum summā vi 4 percūtit; frustra tamen; horrīda ēnim ursi pellis ictum avertit, et vix heros grăviora clavae verbera evītat; ter ad terram deicitur; ter ad impetum invictus resurgit. Tandem glădio abiecto monstri collum mănibus corripuit, caputque eius tantā vi saxo illisit, ut 8 membra morte statim solverentur. Deinde clavā horridoque ursi tegmine dereptis cadāver vulturibus praedam reliquit.

Sinis, the Robber.

117. Inde praeter bimarem Corinthum progressus Sini occurrit, diro praedoni, cui mos erat duabus pīnibus deflexis membra captivorum distracta divellere. Hunc in saxo sedentem Theseus vīdit. Ossa caesorum 4 hominum undique de ramis dependebant. Quem audax ita heros affatur, 'Suntne tibi, sceleste, duae arbores, quibus meos artūs affīgas?' Cui loquenti Sinis ita respondet, 'Est mihi quidem satīs arborum; 8 praetereā mihi humanā carne opus est.' Quibus dictis gigas pinu pro clavā usus Theseum adortus est.

Death of Sinis.

118. Diu et acriter pugnatur. Silvae verberibus resonant. Sed ferrum ligno durius est. Pinus, quā frētus Sinis instat, diffissă frangitur. Gigas in faciem pronus humi procumbit. Quem iam superatum Theseus 4 eodem modo necavit, quo ille alios ante necaverat. Vertices geminarum pinorum ad terram magnā vi deflectuntur. Membra praedonis utrique arbori funibus alligantur, truncisque subito remissis in diversas partes 8 divelluntur.

Sciron, the Tortoise-feeder.

119. Posteā Theseus Megără versus profectus ad Scironis rupes appropinquabat; ibi viă inter montes ac mare perangusta erat. Praetereă Sciron îter saxis 4 obstruxerat, ut viatores omnes impediret, impeditosque de rupibus ingenti testudîni vorandos deturbaret. Hic, ubi Theseum adeuntem vidit, magnā voce exclamavit. Huc ad tempus, peregrīne, vēnisti meos pēdes 8 lăvātum. Iamdudum mea testūdo ieiūnā esŭrit. **

The Tables turned.

120. Tum 'ligneā clavā supra căput librātā Sciron Theseo instanti obviam occurrit. Sed armis haud păribus concurritur. Lignum graviōre ferro fractum 4 cēdit. Sciron igitur clavam inūtilem abiecit, Theseumque brachiis complexus de rupe proicere tentabat. Atrox in viā angustā certāmen erat * Sed vīres Scirōni tandem defecēre et ille vulneribus confectus obsecravit, 8 ut sibi parceretur. Cui Theseus 'eādem quidem erga te victum,' inquit, 'clementiā utar, quā tu in alios usus es.' Tum victor gladio recepto Scirōnem pēdes suos lăvare rītē cŏēgit; quo facto de rūpe eum pēde proiecit, 12 ut ipse a suā testudine vŏrāretur.

The silent Dancers.

121. Nec diu illic morātus mox ad viridem vallem descendit, ubi armenta pecudesque passim pascebantur. Hic propter lăcum pastores cum nymphis saltantes 4 vīdit, sed inter choreas nullae ridentium voces, nulli fistularum sonitūs audīti sunt. Omnes autem, simul atque eum adeuntem animadvertērunt, magno terrēre affecti ŏvibus coactis terga vertērunt. Quorum praecipiti 8 fügā Theseus magnŏpere attonĭtus fuit, sed itinere fessus, cum membra in lăcu lăvasset, seque sub arbŏre quiētis capiendae causā stravisset, pastores ad lŏcum revertentes aspexit, causamque fŭgae quaesivit.

The Cause of the Silence.

122. Cui rŏganti illi ĭta respondērunt. Ubi tuam clavam hirsutasque exuvias aspexĭmus, ad latebras et rupium cavernas nos recēpĭmus, te Periphetem esse răti qui finĭtimos agros populātus pecudes ăgit, pastores-4 que captos trucīdat. Quibus Theseus, 'Periphetes,' inquit, 'vobis non amplius timendus est, cuius corpus iam corvos pascit; namque ipse meis manibus monstrum interfeci.' Cui pastores gāvīsi grātias pro tanto beneficio 8 reddĭdērunt eumque, ut secum diu mŏrāretur, orabant. Ille tămen animis et corpore refectis discessit alia perīcula petītum.

Cercyon, the Wrestler.

123. Posteā per Thriasium campum victor Eleusin contendit; ibi est templum Cereris, quam magno honōre incolae colunt (quia olim diva Triptolomum bobus iŭga imponere, terramque prius incultam ărare 4 docuerit, unde tot bonă mortalibus provenerunt). Hic Cercyonem crudelem tyrannum in atrio cenantem invenit; quem magna voce provocat, ut secum casum pugnae experiatur. Cercyon advenae audaciam irrisit 8 eumque cibo vinoque se recreare iussit, ut integris viribus dimicarent.

The Struggle.

124. Postquam fămes exempta est, uterque se ad pugnam paravit. Cives interea circum portas conferti exitum pugnae exspectabant. Tum congressi alter 4 alterum brachiis circumdant. Diro certămine multas horas luctantur. Occidente sole astra desuper lucem demittunt. Neuter praevălet. Tandem tămen Cercyon irā incitatus, brachiis remissis adversărium strangulare 8 pugnaeque finem imponere conatur. Quam occasionem nactus Theseus femore supposito Cercyonem e terrā sublatum in āĕra retro iactat. Ille collapsus (cervīcet (fractā hūmi) procumbit.

Procrustes.

125. Postea dum Theseus Aphidnas sub īmo Parnēte iter facit, virum quendam ingenti corporis) magnitūdine, vīdit, qui splendido habitu indūtus, in brachiis armillas aureas, circum collum torquem gemmis ornatum gerebat. Hic vir Theseo multis verbis suadebat, ut secum domum iret. 'Non poteris hac nocte,' inquit, 'Aphidnas pervenire. Praetereā fessus estinere, et mihi est lectus mirābilis, qui omnibus pariter commodus est, in quo, si quis recubuerit, ut nunquam ante dormivit, dormiet.' Quibus dictis adductus Theseus tandem annuit, et hospitem per asperam viam comitātus est.

A kind Act.

126. Quo longius procēdunt, eo via angustior fiebat, et rūpes utrinque minācius imminebant. Sub pedibus torrens obstrēpebat. Nullae arböres in sterili sõlo 4 appārebant. Ventus nīvāli flamīne trans Parnētis iuga afflabat. Subito a tergo sŏnus audītur. 'Huc alii viatores veniunt,' hospes ait, 'solus părumper perge, dum redeam ut iis quoque hospitium mei tecti offeram.' Inde dum Theseus solus montem ascendit, senem 8 quendam ligna colligentem animadvertit, cui vīres ad onus levandum deficiebant. Cui lăboranti cum heros opem dedisset, senex gratias ob tantam benignitatem reddidit.

Its Reward. A timely Warning.

127. 'Nescisně, iuvěnis infēlix,' sěnex ait, 'quò itūrus sis? Ne longius hac miserābili viā processěris. Ille vir Procrustes est, monstrum crudelissimum, qui membra omnium hospitum ad mensūram lecti sui ac-4 commodat. Aliorum pedes abscīdit; aliorum artūs vi extendit. Egomet solus repertus sum, cuius statura lecti mensurae convenit. Inde diuturnam servitutem servio. Hinc effüge, si potes. Non enim Procrustem 8 tuae iuventūtis miserebit.'

A Coward slain.

128. Qu'dd cum audivisset, Theseus irā gravīter' commotus se obviam Procrusti intülit, qui mercatōres, quos in hospitium tecti invītaverat, secum domum conducebat. Cui heros magnā voce exclamavit, 'Sceleratissime omnium iurum violator, utrum hoc verum est, annon? Nosne tecum conducis, ut pedes mānūsque abscīdas, extremisque tormentis interficias?' His verbis nihil Procrustes respondet. Horrīdus pallor eius ōra pervādit. Interea tāmen ille clam manum gladio admovet. Sed priusquam ferrum stringere potest, Thesei clava adversa in faciem incidit, monstrumque hūmi prostravit.

Dividing the Spoil.

129. Deinde torque armillisque de caeso gigante detractis victor vicīnae regionis incolas ad se convocavit omnesque mortui latronis opes, quas per tot annos anesandis latrociniis cumulaverat, inter eos partītus sines morā Aphidnas profectus est. Fama autem Thesei iam late percrebuerat, atque etiam ad aures regis perlata erat. Ille igitur cum se apud Aphidnas ex caede Sinis purgavisset, statim Athēnas progressus ad regiam Aegei processit.

Aegeus.

130. Ibi Pallantidae se arroganter gerebant, et diuturnis epulis regis bonă consumebant, dum rex ipse mălis Medeae illecebris domitus res publicas omnīno eneglegebat. Quas res cum vidisset, Theseus magnā irā commotus ad Aegeum nuntium misit, qui nuntiaret, Theseum Troezenensem adesse. Rex autem de eius adventu certior factus in atrium ire festīnavit, ut meritas ei gratias pro fortibus factis referret. Simul Aegeus Theseum vīdit, eum miro quodam amore dilexit, maximisque honoribus oneravit.

The Poisoned Cup.

131. Quod cum Medēa animadvertisset, statim Theseum interficere constituit. Quae cum se clarissimis gemmis et insigni veste decoravisset, 4 Theseum oravit ut vīnum e magico pōculo propīnaret, quod novam vitam fessis incuteret, et omnia vulnera citius dicto sānaret. Theseus nescio quid mali suspicatus poculum recūsavit, nisi Medēa merum prius 8 libavisset. Illa autem repente pallida facta, Me, precor, ait, 'excusatam habe. Iam mihi non cordi est bibere.' "Quibus dictis" Theseus gladio destricto in Medeam irruit. At illa poculo in humum deiecto biiŭgis draconibus in aethera avenitur. Tanta vero 12 erat vis veneni, quo Medea vinum infecerat, ut marmor pavimenti diffiderit.

The Rout of the Pallantides.

132. Cum igitur Theseus Medeam Athenis expulisset, gladio ac talāribus, quae secum attulerat, exhībītis verba, quae mater praeceperat, Aegeo dixit. Statim pater filium agnovit, et multis cum lacrimis 4 Theseum complexus civibus praedīcavit, suum filium inventum esse. Haec res Pallantīdis magnopere displicuit, qui universi in Theseum impētum fecerunt. Viginti contra unum pugnaverunt; sed tanta erat 8 Thesei virtus, ut multis interfectis relīquos ex urbe fūgāret.

The Yearly Tribute.

133. Deinde sub vesperum omnes cives ad Acropolim convēnērunt, ut victīmas Minervae immolarent, gratiasque dis agerent, quod Aegeus filium tam nobilem recēpisset. Postea totam hiemem Theseus Athēnis 4 mansit, sed vēre ineunte Athenienses maestos obmutescere animadvertit, nec causam doloris cognoscere potuit. Tandem tamen lēgati e Cretā Athēnas vēnērunt, medioque in foro cives annuum vectīgal 8 postulaverunt.

The Cause of the Payment.

134. Quamobrem Theseus magnā irā commotus legatis mortem minitabatur. Cui unus e legatis ita dixit: 'Minos, omnium regum sapientissimus, nos huc 4 misit vectīgal iure debītum a civibus exacturos. Ille enim magnā cum classe profectus totam hanc terram usque ad Megara devīcit, irātus ob caedem nati sui, Androgei, qui invidiae causā ab Atheniensibus foede 8 occisus est, quod apud Olympicos Ludos omnibus Graecis virtute praestītisset. Tum ne civītas fundītus deleretur, cives polliciti sunt se sceleris expiandi causā septēnos iuvenes septēnasque virgines quotannis mis-12 suros esse, promissumque iureiurando confirmaverunt.'

Theseus volunteers.

135. Quibus rebus audītis Theseus, invīto patre, cum devōtā mānu ad Cretam ire constituit, ut Minotaurum occīderet et patriam suam ab nefando vectīgāli 4 in aeternum liberaret. Itaque sortibus rite ductis ipse cum ceteris victimis navem conscendit, et inter lugubres omnium civium ploratus, qui eos sicut mortuos maerebant, solvit. Theseus tamen proficiscens Aegeo promisit, se pro nigris candida vela sublaturum esse, si modifices ex sententiā evenissent, et di boni secundum reditum dedissent.

Daedalus.

186. Post pauces dies illi ad Gnosiam tellürem, et ad regiam Mini, quem Iuppiter ipse lēges docuit, pervenērunt. Hanc regiam Daedālus multā arte 4 fabrīcatus erat. Daedalus autem Graecorum artificum longe callidissimus erat. Is enim multa machinarum genēra fabrorumque instrumenta invēnit; primus mālos pēdesque navibus instituit, quibus filius Icarus vēla 8 aptavit. Praetereā cum regiam et labyrinthum variis ambāgibus multiplicem regi construxisset, sibi et filio suo alas e plumis avium fecit; quas cum illi humëris cērā affixissent, mare transire conati sunt; quorum alter Graeciam tutus attigit; alter infelix, cum fervidis Phoebi 12 radiis nimium appropinquâsset, nomen Icario ponto dědit.

Theseus' request.

virgines ad mortem destinati coram Mino starent, Theseus regem obsecravit ut ipse primus morti obiceretur. Sed cum Minos Theseum Aegei natum esse cogno-4 visset, eum adulescentis miseruit; rătusque iuvenem ultro venisse, quod patris scelus expiare vellet, eum impune domum redire iussit. Theseus tamen ita respondit. 'Equidem, O regum sapientissime, iuravi 8 me non prius ad Atticam terram rediturum esse quam Minotaurum vidissem.' Quo audito Minos imperavit ut omnes in carcerem conicerentur, Theseusque proximo die ante omnes monstro traderetur.

Ariadne.

188. Ariadne autem, rēgīs filia, heroa praetereuntem vīdit, visumque adeò amavit, ut clam noctu domo egressa carcerem intraverit. Deinde facultate collòquendi dătā Theseo amorem patefecit, eique suasit, 4 ut quam celerrime cum sociis navem peteret, ipsamque secum ad Graeciam aventeret; se enim hac re civibus cognita domi mănere non posse affirmabat. Cui tamen Theseus ita respondit, Vivo Minotauro abire nolo, ne-8 que hinc redibo priusquam tot iuvenes virginesque ab hoc monstro interemptos ultus ero.' Hanc temeritatem mirata Ariadne Theseum măgis amabat, eique pugionem

12 ac glomus dedit, ut monstro necato pedem e labyrintho referre posset. Ille gratiis ob sălūtem redditis se quieti dedit, ut animis viribusque refectis Minotauro obviam iret.

Minotaurus.

139. Proximo die custodes Theseum e carcere in labyrinthum duxerunt; qui avidus certaininis, glomere manu retento, per mille loci anfractus processit. Tan4 dem in angusto saltu Minotauro obviam occurrit.

Cornua tauri, leonisque dentes erant. Ille Theseo viso terrificos gemitus edidit, et capite demisso eum cornu petiit. At Theseus corpus suum cito deflexit, beluamque irruentem genu vulneravit, tergumque eius fugientis, iterum atque iterum pugione confodit.

The Pursuit.

140. Minotaurus autem, qui nunquam ante dölörem senserat, se fügae in praeceps dedit, mugītuque terribili per saxa rupesque se tülit. Quem Theseus 4 summis vīribus secūtus glomus sinistrā, dextrā pugionem, quae Ariadne dederat, retinebat. Multas horas per arduos scopulos, saxososque torrentium alveos instabat; tandem tamen beluam in saxo anhēlantem 8 consecūtus, capite retro reflexo, detruncavit.

The Black Sail.

141. Hoc lăbore confecto victor grădus retrorsum vix tendit, et glomère usus per longas ambages ad ostium labyrinthi tandem pervenit. Ibi Ariadnae 4 adventum exspectanti pugionem Minotauri crăore madefactum ostendit. Inde sine mora ad carcerem profecti custodes vino, quod illa iis dederat, oppressos invenerunt, reliquosque captivos ad unum liberaverunt. Tum silentio noctis tecti navem conscende 8 runt, ancorisque sellatis per mediam hostium classem evasore. Veruntamen gaudio et amore heu! nimis elatus Theseus promissi omnino oblitus est, neque nigra vela candidis mutavit. Quod Aegeus ex alta 12 turre speculatus, Theseumque interfectum esse arbitratus se in mare proiecit, quod ob hanc causam etiam nunc Aegaeum mare appellatur.

CAIUS MARIUS.

Early training.

142. Gaius Marius Arpini natus est; humili loco ortus summos civitatis honores attigit. A puero se duris laboribus assuefecit. Ubi primum actas militiae patiens fuit, stipendia um legionibus meruit neque se 4 urbanā luxuriā debilitabat. Sub Scipione Africano in Numantino bello magnā cum laude militavit; quem dux ipse ob egregiam virtutem collaudavisse fertur. Qua re et secundo haruspicis responso elatus se ad res 8 publicas convertit magnasque spes concipere coepit.

- Character - Marries Julia.

143. Mario quidem inerat animus impiger, probus, in bello fortis, quient impatiens. Deerant autem illi familiae vetustas et opes et facundia, quibus rebus eo tempore Romae honores plerumque petebantur. 4 Temperantia tamen, iustitia, fortitudine commilitonum favorem adeptus est. Praeterea Iuliam e nobili Iuliorum gente in matrimonium duxit, quae res eius dignitatem maxime auxit.

Sudna Conoul.

As Metellus' Legatus takes part in Jugarthine War.

144. Ille ope Metelli tribunus militum (factus est.) Mox aedilitatem petiit, sed repulsam passus est. Paulo post, praetor electus est, et ambitūs accusatus vix absolutus est. Chamadeptus magistratum, rerum civilium imperītus, nihil famae addidit et iniucundis moribus se nobilibus odiosum fecit. Postquam praeturā se abdicavit, provinciam Ibēriae sortitus est, ubi infestas atronum manūs delevit, et res optime administravit.

Helps to restore discipline of Troops.

145. Cum autem Metellus Numidiae provinciam, ut Iugurtham subigeret, accepisset, Marium, legatum, secum tulit. Ubi in Africam venit, exercitus ei 4 traditur iners, imbellis, neque periculi neque laboris patiens. Statuit igitur non prius bellum incipere quam maiorum disciplīnam militibus restituisset. Qua in re Marius virīlem partem egit. Magnis itineribus castra 8 quotīdie moveri, vallo atque fossā muniri iubebat, vigilias crebras ponebat, et ipse cum legațis omnia circumibat. Milites cibum et arma portare coegit, et exercitum brevi confirmavit.

Storming of Zama.

146. Cum Romanus imperator Iugurtham diu frustra per deserta secutus esset, hostem suis artibus aggredi, agros vicosque vastare, et Zamam, arcem 4 regni, oppugnare statuit. Marius ad Zamam pervēnit; id oppidum, in campo situm, magis opere quam naturā munitum erat; nullius rei egens, armis virisque opulentum. Metellus omnia pro tempore părat, et 8 cuncta moenia exercitu circumvěnit; deinde signo dato undique simul clamor ingens oritur; neque ea res Numidas terret; infensi intentique sine tumultu mănent.

Marius saves the Roman Camp.

147. Romani ēminus glande aut lapidibus pugnare; alii murum suffödere, alii scalis aggrēdi; cupēre comminus manūs conserēre. Contra ea oppidāni in proximos saxa volvere; sūdes, pīla, praeterea taedam 4 pice et sulfure ardenti mixtam mittere. Interea Iugurtha cum magnā manu castra Romanorum ex improviso invadit. Nec ii, qui in praesidio erant, parati. Repentino metu perculsi alii fugiunt, alii 8 arma capiunt; magna pars vulnerati, aut occisi. In hoc rerum discrimine Marius suis auxilio vēnit, et hostem munimento castrorum impeditum fugavit.

His jealousy of Metellus.

148. Marius magnas res in bello gessit; semper tamen gloriam sibi, non Metello vindicabat, militumque animos sibi conciliabat. 'Si mihi Populus Romanus,' inquit, 'summum belli imperium det, brevi Iugur-4 tham aut interficiam aut vinculis oneratum Romam trăham.' Palam Metellum apud milites criminatus est iam in tertium annum bellum trahentem. Ita effecit ut milites Romam ad suos necessarios asperè 8 in Metellum de bello scriberent, et Marium imperatorem poscerent. Hoc modo totam Italiam suā famā implevit.

Advice of Metellus. Marius goes to Rome.

149. Metellus interea, cum haec cognovisset, quasi per amicitiam Marium monebat, ne super fortunam rem gereret. Metello enim inerat contemptor animus 4 et superbia, pessimum nobilitatis malum. 'Non omnia,' inquit, 'omnibus cupienda sunt. Ne festinaveris. Satis maturè cum meo filio consul fies.' At filius Metelli admodum adulescens cum patre tum militabat. 8 Quae res iram Marii magnopere commovit, qui missione petītā Romam quam celerrimè rediit, ut consulatum peteret.

Hostility to the Nobles.

150. Itaque cum Romam pervenisset omnibus modis populi animos contra nobiles accendebat. Ut novus homo vehementer in senatum invehere, de 4 ducibus victis, Bestiā et Albīno, saepe mentionem facere, cuncta denique nobilitatis vitia enumerare, dum suas victorias in memoriam revocat et se arroganter extollit. 'Equidem mea vulnera,' inquit, 'non aliorum 8 imagines ostendo. Nobilibus maiorum fortia facta cognatorumque opes praesidio sunt; mihi spes omnes in memet sitae sunt.'

Elected Consul. Actively pursues the war in Africa.

151. Quibus artibus ita effēcit, ut consul per omnes tribūs crearetur et ut summa belli a Metello paene finiti sibi committeretur. Tum primum milites ex imā plebe 4 conscripti sunt. Statim in Africam profectus Marius Capsam, urbem in mediā Africa sĭtam, anguibus arēnisque munitam expugnavit. Molucham etiam urbem in monte inexpugnabili condĭtam adĭtu arduo 8 penetravit.

Quarrels with Sulla.

152. Paulo post non modo Iugurtham, sed Bocchum quoque, Iugurthae sŏcĕrum apud oppidum Cirtam graviter cecīdit. Iugurtha tamen incolumis e manibus effügit. Sed quem vis perdere non potuit, 4 dolus soceri perdidit. Sic in insidias deductus rex in Sullae manum traditus est; tandemque oneratum catenis Iugurtham in triumpho Marii Populus Romanus aspexit. Cuius rei gloriam nobiles Sullae (non Mario) attri-8 buerunt. Hinc invidia inter duos principes.

Invasion of Teutones: second Consulship.

153. Sed commune reipublicae periculum has discordias sēdavit. Immanis enim vis Germanarum gentium, quibus nomen Cimbris ac Teutonibus erat, Italiae imminebant. Hi barbari tres Romanorum 4 exercitūs trucidaverant, neque populus alium imperatorem in tanto discrimine magis idoneum quam Marium ratus est. Itaque Marius consul iterum designatus in urbem cum exercitu revertit, et secundi 8 consulatus initio, calendis Ianuariis, Iugurtham in triumpho duxit.

The Barbarians.

154. Inde primo vere copias in Galliam Transalpinam traiēcit, dum collēga Catulus cis Alpes castra ponit ad Italiae aditūs defendendos. Barbari se in duas partes diviserunt. Cimbri per Noricas Alpes adversus Catulum 4 profecturi erant. Teutones et Ambrones sine morā per Liguriam progressi obviam Mario ibant, et mox horridi aspectu, multitudine innumeri non procul ab castris Marii in campo consēdērunt.

Marius restrains his Men.

155. Marius interim suos intra munitiones tenebat, et eos, qui virtutem exhibere nimis studebant, cohibebat. 'Non iam opus est,' inquit, 'tropaeis et spoliis opimis, 4 sed potius hanc tantam belli nubem et tempestatem a patria arcere.' Milites etiam invicem in vallo stare iussit, ut novis clamoribus armisque barbarorum paulatim assuescerent. Sic quotidiana consuetudo 8 pavorem minuit et arrogantia hostium, qui agros sociorum ante oculos ferro et igni vastabant, Romanorum animos ad bellum accendebat.

The troops grumble.

156. Ad id iam militum furor excessit, ut palam imperatorem increparent. Viri inter se rogitabant Nosne ignavos Marius putat? Cur nos sicut mulieres in castris custodit? Quem alium exercitum exspectat? Num nos tam durā disciplinā exercuit, ut canāles effodiamus, amniumque cursūs divertamus? Melius esset perire quam hic sedēre inertes agrosque sociorum 8 vastatos spectare!

Portents.

157. Haec dicta militum magnopere Mario placebant, qui animos eorum secundis auguriis confirmavit, hortatus eos ne immature pugnarent. Ille enim 4 mulierem divinatione peritissimam in castris secum habebat, quam semper consulebat. Multa portenta et victoriae signa ex omni parte nuntiabantur. Praeterea duo vultures exercitum sequebantur, quorum adventu 8 laetati milites circum colla annulos aureos posuerunt ut alites bonae fortunae praenuntios agnoscerent.

The Teutones march past the Roman Camp.

158. Tandem Teutones morae taedebat; et cum castra saepe frustra adorti essent, ad Alpes versus progredi et Romanos itinere praetergredi statuerunt. 4 Quot numero fuerint, ex hac re licet coniecturam facere, quod agmine non intermisso sex dies praeter Romana castra proficiscebantur. Qui praetergredientes ludibrio dictitabant; 'Numquid uxoribus nuntiare vultis? Mox eas videbimus.'

Marius follows.

159. Paulo post igitur Marius quoque castris motis modico intervallo hostes secutus est, et singulis noctibus haud procul a barbarorum castris consēdit; sed ut noctem securus ageret, castra munienda semper curavit. 4 Hoc modo ad Aquas Sextias perventum est. Ibi Marius se ad proelium paravit; sed pugnae fortuna initium fecit.

Fight with Ambrones.

160. Quidam cālones aquae inopiā coacti, flumen, quod propius hostium castra erat, adierunt. Hos inter aquandum Ambrones, Germanorum fortissimi, adorti sunt. Tum Ligures calonibus subvenerunt, et Am-4 brones in flumine impeditos oppresserunt. Magnam partem interfecerunt: ceteri ad castra fugati sunt, ubi complures e fugitivis feminarum secūribus percussi interierunt. Nox finem pugnae tulit, et victores 8 Romani de cruento flumine non plus aquae quam barbarorum sanguinis bibērunt.

Preparations for pitched Battle.

161. Nox tamen Romanis non sine metu erat. Marius enim castra ante' pugnam non satis muniverat, et nocturnam incursionem metuebat. Barbari vero nullum illā nocte impetum nec postrīdie fecerunt; sed 4 ordines tantum instruebant seque ad dimicandum parabant. Marius interea Claudium Marcellum cum tribus milibus gravis armaturae equitum in insidiis 8 locavit, ut Teutones a tergo adoriretur. Reliquas copias primā luce pro castris instruxit, et equitatum in campum descendere iussit.

Repulse of Barbarians.

162. Quod cum Teutones vidissent, nolebant manēre, donec Romani descendērent, pugnamque in aequo darent, sed summis viribus currentes in adver-4 sum collem irruerunt. Romani pedites in suo loco stabant, nec iaculum quisquam prius proiecit quam barbari cursu anhelantes institērunt. Tum subito coniectis iaculis impetum in hostem iam deficientem fecerunt et 8 barbarorum aciem frustra resistentem retro in campum reppulērunt.

The cavalry attack them in the rear. Victory.

163. Simul clamor et trepidatio a tergo orta est. Nam Marcellus ex insidiis sese ostendit, hostesque perculsos invasit. Inde atrox strages oritur. Nec diu 4 barbari duplicem cladem sustinēre poterant. Fusi fugatique diffūgērunt. Plus centum mīlia hominum interfecti aut capti. Tota gens paene excisa est. Tentoria, plaustra, omnis castrorum praeda Mario a mili-8 tibus data. Nec plus quam pro meritis accepisse existimabatur. Tanta ex omnium consensu erat magnitudo periculi, quod ille ab Italiā averterat.

Fifth Consulship. The Cimbri.

164. Inde Romam revocatus triumphare noluit, sed in quintum consulatum electus victorem exercitum in Italiam traiecit et se cum Proconsule Catulo coniunxit in campis, quibus nomen erat Raudiis. Hic Cimbrorum 4 adventum exspectabat. Illi interea in Venetia consederant legatosque ad Marium miserunt, qui sibi fratribusque suis agros in Italia sitos peterent. Mario roganti 'Quos vestros fratres vocatis' responderunt 8 'Teutones nobis sunt fratres, qui mox huc nobiscum venturi sunt.' Quibus Marius ridens 'Si de Teutonibus,' inquit, 'dīcitis, non iis magis opus est agro; nos enim iis satis agri in aeternum dedimus.'

The Ambassadors confronted with the Teuton captives.

165. Legati cum se ludibrio esse sensissent, Romanis minati sunt exclamantes 'Non inulti eritis simul ac Teutones venerint.' Quibus Marius respondit, 'Illi videlicet iam pervenerunt, nec vobis licebit 4 abire antequam vestros fratres salutaveritis Tum Teutonum principes, qui proelio capti erant, catēnis operatos adduci jussit.

A day fixed for Battle.

166. Quibus rebus incensi legati diem pugnae a Mario petierunt, qui tertium dedit. In patenti campo concurrēre, qui locus Romano equitatui opportunus erat. Medium Catulus tenebat cum triginta milibus 4 militum; in cornibus suas copias Marius disposuit. Qui cum sacra fecisset extaque rite inspexisset magnā voce 'nobis stat victoria' exclamans signa conferri inssit.

Destruction of Cimbri.

167. Cimbri frigoribus assueti calorem solstitii male ferebant; quorum acies in orientem versa fulgore solis impedita est. Romani sexaginta milia barbarorum

4 cecīderunt. Multi e Cimbris ordinatim, ut stabant, trucidati; ordines enim ferreis vinculis, ne fracti fugerent! colligati erant: nec minor cum uxoribus quam cum ipsis viris pugna erat, namque illae e plaustris 8 atque carpentis pugnantes et suos fugientes et Romanos insequentes promiscuā strage propulērunt, et tandem infantibus iugulatis mortem sibi infandis modis consciverunt. Qua clade universa gens deleta est.

Sixth Consulship. Exiled by Sulla.

168. Post hanc victoriam Populus Romanus Marium ut tertium Urbis conditorem salutaverunt; cui sextus Consulatus veluti proemium meritorum datus est. 4 Mario autem sex consulatūs non satisfecerunt. Natus enim septuaginta annos effecit ut bellum Mithridatīcum sibi decerneretur; quod tamen non tulit Sulla, qui Urbem armis cito occupavit Mariumque cum filio principibusque eius factionis exsules fecit. Quem fugientem milites secuti in palude, tantummodo naribus exstantem, ceperunt. Sic nudus, luto oblitus, loro in collum iniecto, Minturnas perductus est.

Flight. Omens.

169. Tamen his tantis malis oppressus non omnino desperabat. Namque illi puero augur septem consulatūs praedixerat, quo tempore aquilae nidum cum 4 septem pullis de rupe lapsum togā ceperat. Quin etiam iuxta Minturnas asellus dominum fugiens ei obviam occurrit et cum in vultum intente inspexisset, vocemque ter ēdidisset, caudā huc illuc exsultim agitatā ad 8 aquam decurrit. Quo viso Marius 'Omen,' inquit, 'accipio. Mare, non terra mihi saluti erit.' Quae spes eum in adversis rebus sustinebant.

Escape to Carthage.

170. Minturnis Marius in carcerem inicitur; magistratūs servum publicum eum gladio occīdere iubent. Servus, qui forte bello Cimbrico captus erat, Marium agnovit, et tanti viri casu commotus gladio abiecto e 4 carcere profūgit. Itaque magistratūs huius paulo ante potentissimi ducis misereri a servo docti Marium viatico instructum in navem imposuerunt. Ille ad insulam Aenariam nave appulsus filium invēnit et inde 8 cursum ad Africam direxit, ubi inter ruinas Carthaginis vitam inopem exsul toleravit.

Cinna.

171. Interea Romae anno post Urbem conditam sexcentensimo sexagensimo quarto seditio exorta est. Dum Sulla contra Mithridatem in Boeotiā bellum gerit, domi consules Cinna et Octavius in armis erant. 4 Octavius Cinnam superatum ex Urbe expulit. Tum Marius occasionem naetus ad Italiam rediit. Ibi multitudinem fugitivorum servorumque congregat copiasque suas cum Cinnā coniungit. Cinna prior 8 Urbem ingressus est, legemque de recipiendo Mario tulit, qui mox moenia intravit. Undique iam terror et caedes. In optimum quemque civem Marius saeviebat.

s day

172. Consul Octavius, vir lenissimo animo, iussu Cinnae interfectus est; Merula, qui se sub adventum Cinnae consulatu abdicaverat, incisis venis, mortem sibi conscivit. Marcus Antonius eloquentiā insignis-4 simus gladiis militum, quos ipsos facundiā suā moratus erat, iussu Marii Cinnaeque confossus est. Quintus

jodio

Catulus quoque belli Cimbrici gloria celeberrimus, scum ad mortem conquireretur mortem ultro oppetiit.

Seventh Consulship.

173. Proximo anno dies exspectata tandem advēnit; secundum Cinna consulatum, septimum, ut praedictum erat, Marius iniit. Qui iam labore et annis confectus, insomnis, vino deditus, ad villam adventante Sullā se recepisse fertur; ibi septimo decimo die septimi consulatūs febri interemptus obiit, vir in bello hostibus, in otio civibus infestissimus.

EXERCISES ON THESEUS

Page 36.

1. Aethra, the mother of Theseus, brought up her son at-the-court-of Pittheus, who was reigning in the ancient city of Troezene. As a boy he was trained in all the exercises of the palaestra and spent much time 4 in hunting. He chased the deer in the forest and with his spear killed wild boars. He did everything to prepare himself for lifting the stone, about which his mother had spoken.

Page 37.

2. At length when he was now twenty years old, with his mother he again sought the grove, which stood not far from the temple of Neptune. He entered the grove and found the plane-tree and the stone lying 4 beneath it. Striving with all his strength he made a mighty effort, and with difficulty he moved and raised the great stone.

Page 37.

3. Beneath the stone the astonished youth beheld winged-sandals and an immense sword, the hilt of which was made of gold. These he lifts up and joyfully carries back to his mother. When Aethra saw 4 these things, she embraced her son and wept. Then she ordered him to go to Attica and to seek out his father Aegeus, who was king of that land.

Page 38.

4. 'But first,' said she, 'it is necessary for you to achieve great deeds and encounter all kinds of dangers, that you may be welcomed by your father, Aegeus, the 4 king of the Athenians.' Having spoken these words Aethra retired into the temple. Theseus being left alone prepared himself to make a long journey, and determined on his way to seek out and kill all the 8 robbers who at that time made the highways of Greece dangerous for travellers.

Page 39.

5. First Theseus met Periphetes, whom men called the Spider. Periphetes carried a club forged by his father Hephaestus. His shoulders were covered by a 4 bear's hide. This hide was so thick that the sword of Theseus could not pierce it; so Theseus, throwing away his sword, seized the giant with his hands and dashed out his brains against the rock. He left his 8 body to be devoured by the birds, but took away the club and shaggy bear's hide as a trophy.

Page 39.

6. Next, near Corinth, he fought with Sinis the robber. Now Sinis used to tie the limbs of his victims to two fir-trees, the tops of which he had bent down to 4 the ground. The trees being let go tore asunder the bodies of his victims. Theseus with the club, which he had taken from Periphetes, broke the fir-tree, which Sinis was relying on. Then he bound the limbs of the giant to two fir-trees which stood near and tore asunder limbs of the monster, as he himself had before torn imbs of others.

Page 40.

7. After this Theseus came to the cliffs of Sciron. This monster lying in wait for unwary travellers compelled them to wash his feet. And when this was done (abl. abs.) with his foot he pushed them from the 4 top of the rock to be eaten by the tortoise, which in this manner he fed with human flesh. The combat was long and fierce. But at length Theseus conquered and killed the giant in the same way as he himself had 8 destroyed many others.

Page 41.

8. When the hero had thrown Sciron from the cliff he descended from the mountains into the fertile plains of the valley. Here he saw herds of cattle and sheep feeding. The shepherds frightened by the shaggy 4 bear's hide drove off their sheep (abl. abs.) (and) betook themselves to the caverns. When, however, they found that Periphetes was dead, they returned from their hiding-places and rendered thanks to the hero for 8 so great a service. Not delaying long there, Theseus with renewed courage set out in search of new adventures.

Page 42.

9. Having advanced to Eleusis he there challenged Cercyon to battle. So great was the strength of this giant that all men feared him, and no one was willing to wrestle with him. After supper, having prepared 4 themselves for the fight, they joined battle. Under the light of the moon all night they struggled, but neither was able to conquer his adversary. At last Cercyon relaxed his arms and was thrown to the 8 ground with such violence that his neck was broken and an end was put to the fight.

Page 42.

10. While Theseus was travelling to Aphidnae he met a giant of immense size, who begged him to go with him to his castle and sleep that night on a wonder-4 ful couch which he had. This couch was made in such a manner that it fitted all who slept on it, and gave them such rest as they never enjoyed before. Overcome by the giant's prayers Theseus accompanied his 8 host on the rugged path. Soon the giant sees other travellers approaching and hastens to offer hospitality to them also.

Page 43.

11. Meanwhile an old man to whom Theseus had given help to raise his burden of faggots thanked the hero for so great kindness and told him the name of 4 the giant. 'That is Procrustes,' said he, 'whom I wretched serve. My stature fits the length of his wonderful bed. On this bed he tortures all his guests. The feet of some he cuts off. Others, whose limbs are 8 short, he stretches with dreadful cruelty.'

Page 44.

12. Theseus, greatly enraged at these words, ran up to his host and felled him with his club. He placed him on his own bed and cut off his feet and his head, 4 to make his stature fit the measurement of his fatal couch. The treasures of the slain giant, which he had piled up during many years of robbery, were divided among the inhabitants of that region.

Page 45.

13. Thence Theseus, whose fame had now spread abroad far and wide, went to Aphidnae in order that he might cleanse himself from the murder of Sinis, who was a blood-relative of Aegeus. Afterwards proceeding to 4 Athens he drove out the Pallantidae from his father's palace, and released his father from the magic spells of Medea. When Medea was unwilling to taste the wine which she had offered him, having drawn his sword he 8 would have slain her unless she had been carried off into the air by yoked dragons.

Page 46.

14. When the words which Aethra had spoken had been repeated, Theseus displayed to Aegeus the sword and the sandals which he had found under the planetree. At once Aegeus recognised his son and made 4 known the cause of his joy to the citizens. A short time afterwards the envoys sent by King Minos came to Athens to demand the annual tribute of seven youths and seven maidens, who were yearly given over 8 to the monster Minotaur.

Page 46.

15. When Theseus was informed of this thing he was deeply moved by anger and threatened the envoys with death. At last he determined to give himself up as a victim of his own accord, and to kill the savage 4 monster with his own hand. With difficulty he persuaded his father to allow him to go, and promised if he succeeded and killed Minotaur to hoist on his return a white sail instead of a black. Which promise, alas, 8 elated by too much joy, he afterwards forgot, and Aegeus seeing a black sail threw himself from the top of a tower into the Aegean Sea.

Page 47.

16. Then Theseus with the doomed band of victims sailed as quickly as possible from Athens to Crete, and after a few days arrived at the palace of King Minos. 4 When Minos saw him, and found out who he was, he took pity on him and bade him return home unhurt to his father. But Theseus begged that he might not be sent home, but that he might rather be the first to be 8 cast into the labyrinth. Minos enraged at the rashness of the youth commanded the guards of the prison to throw him to Minotaur on the next day.

Page 47.

17. As Theseus was being led away to prison, Ariadne, the daughter of Minos, saw him, and as soon as she saw him, she loved him. Therefore, entering 4 his prison by night she entreated him to flee from Crete and sail away with her before morning to Greece. When he was unwilling to do this she gave him a dagger, with which to kill Minotaur, and a ball 8 of wool to guide back his steps through the windings of the maze built by Daedalus.

Page 48.

18. Next day at dawn Theseus was led by his guards to the labyrinth, and, keeping in his left hand the clue and in his right the dagger, advanced to meet 4 the monster. Now Minotaur had the head of a bull and the teeth of a lion, with which to tear to pieces his prey. Him Theseus having followed through long windings at length saw, and after a long struggle 8 killed. With difficulty returning he found Ariadne at the entrance of the labyrinth awaiting his coming. When they had set free the other prisoners, under the cover of night they embarked on board ship and 12 escaped from the hostile harbour before the break of day.

EXERCISES ON CAIUS MARIUS

[PAGES 49-60.]

- 1. Caius Marius was born, A.U.C. 599, at Arpinum. Sprung from the lowest of the people, he seven times was elected consul. Trained by hardships and danger he gained renown in the Numantine War. In his 4-manners morose and rough, he made himself hateful to the nobles; but honest, active, and brave in war, he won the love of his fellow-soldiers. He allied himself by marriage to the Julian family. Encouraged by 8 success, he determined to aim at public honours. He was created praetor, and was accused of bribery, but acquitted. After he had resigned the praetorship he received-by-lot the province of Iberia, and destroyed 12 the numerous bands of brigands, by whom those districts had been devastated.
- 2. He did good service under Metellus in the Jugurthine War, and helped him to restore the discipline of the army. The soldiers corrupted by luxury had lost their former valour. He hardened his 4 men by forced marches. He changed the position of his camp daily, and each night fortified the camp with a ditch and a rampart. Moreover he ordered each soldier to carry with him several days' food, and himself set an example of fortitude and temperance to all. Following the enemy to their distant retreats, Metellus attacked their strongholds, laid waste their fields, and besieged the citadel of Zama.

- 3. The walls of Zama are surrounded by the Roman army. An assault is made at the same time from all sides. The Numidae defend themselves with great 4 bravery; they throw down the scaling-ladders with their hands; they hurl stones, javelins, and flaming pitch from the walls; they set on fire the engines of the Romans, and make sallies from the gates. At the 8 same time, too, a large band led by Jugurtha himself attacked the camp of the Romans guarded only by a small number of soldiers. Of these nearly all were wounded and many killed. At the critical moment, 12 Marius, who saw what was happening, came to the rescue of his own men, drove back the enemy, and saved the camp.
- 4. Marius was jealous of Metellus, and said that he was prolonging the war in order to increase his own glory. Against Metellus's wish he became a candidate 4 for the consulship. He boasted of his own brave deeds and called to mind the disasters brought upon Rome by the nobles, and inveighed against the luxury and cowardice of the Optimates. Moreover, he promised if 8 the sole conduct of the war were given to him, that he would soon conquer Jugurtha and bring him in chains to Rome. Which thing actually happened. By these devices Marius was elected consul, and it so happened 12 that Jugurtha, owing to the treachery of his father-in-law, was betrayed to Sulla, Marius's lieutenant.
 - 5. After the Jugurthine War was finished a greater danger threatened Rome. The Cimbri and Teutones, inflamed by former victories and eager for prey, were 4 marching to pillage the fertile plains of Italy. Who could stop them but Marius? Accordingly, by universal consent, Marius was a second time chosen consul with supreme power. He himself with his army hastened to check the advance of the Teutones, while 8 the other consul Catulus defended the Cis-alpine province against the Cimbri, who were pouring through the passes of the Norican Alps.

- 6. Marius at first prevented his troops from joining battle with the barbarians, in order that he might accustom them to their strange arms and wild warcries. He pitched his camp not far from the place 4 where the Teutones had encamped, and strengthened his position with works and fortifications, and ordered no one to go out of the gates. The Romans, incensed by the arrogance of the enemy, by whom the territory 8 of their allies was daily being ravaged before their eyes, were with difficulty kept back within their camp. So great was their impatience that they begged Marius that it might be allowed to them to make an attack on 12 the barbarians.
- 7. The soldiers openly kept on grumbling against the inactivity of Marius. They kept on asking one another (Oratio Obliqua), 'Are we cowards? Does Marius think us women? What other army is being 4 waited for? Our commander has brought us here to dig canals and turn rivers from their channels. The enemy despise us and think we are afraid to trust ourselves outside the walls of our camp. We will 8 shortly make him think otherwise. No longer will we sit down idly and see the property of our allies destroyed.' Marius himself was pleased by this impatience of the soldiers, but determined not to fight a decisive 12 battle until a favourable opportunity offered.

- 8. He paid great attention to soothsayers and auguries, and always had with him in the camp a prophetess named Martha, by whose advice he exhorted 4 the soldiers to restrain themselves. Many people announced favourable omens, which things encouraged the army and inspired confidence. Moreover, the soldiers joyfully greeted two vultures, which were 8 recognised as birds of good omen by means of rings placed on their necks. These birds accompanied the army on the march, and were regarded both by the men and their general as harbingers of victory.
- 9. The enemy at length, moved by supreme contempt for the Romans, broke up their camp, and passing their position, marched on towards Italy.

 4 They said, mockingly, that they were going to Rome, and if the Romans wished to send anything to their wives, that they would carry it for them. So great, however, was the multitude of the barbarians that they marched slowly; nor did Marius allow them to escape, but following them closely overtook them near Aquae Sextiae. At which place in the evening, while the camp-servants were fetching water, a battle was begun.

 12 The Romans falling upon the Ambrones at a disadvantage, while crossing the river, killed a great part of them, and put the rest to flight.
- 10. Next day Marius prepared himself for a pitched battle. Having drawn up his line on the higher ground he secretly sent Claudius Marcellus with 3000 cavalry 4 to take up a position sheltered by a wood, which was situated in the rear of the enemy. On that day the barbarians made no attack, and Marius was unwilling to go down on to the plain. On the third day, 8 however, the enemy, impatient of delay, charged up the hill. The Roman ranks stood unmoved, and allowed the enemy to tire themselves with running. Then all together, hurling their darts, they rushed upon the breathless barbarians.

- 11. At the same time the cavalry charged upon their flanks and drove back into the plain the already wavering line of the enemy. At this moment Claudius Marcellus out of his ambush attacked the barbarians 4 in the rear. Then followed a mighty carnage. The Romans put to the sword or took prisoners more than 20,000 barbarians. The greater part of the spoil was given to Marius, by whom alone so great a danger had 8 been averted from Italy. In the next year, joining his forces with Catulus, he crushed, and almost annihilated, the whole race of the Cimbri.
- 12. After Marius had been six times elected consul he was banished by Sulla, who seized the city, and put to death as many of the Marian faction as he could find. Marius having escaped to Africa again returned 4 to Rome in the consulship of Cinna, and being elected consul for the seventh time, mercilessly massacred all the chief men of Optimates. No one was spared. A reign of terror was set up in the city. The man, who 8 had been called a second Romulus on account of his saving the fatherland from the Gauls, behaved himself with such ferocity that the Romans hated his name.
